History of Cabarrus County Hospital

In 1935 Mrs. J. W. Cannon gave to Cabarrus County five and one-half acres of land on Highway 29A halfway between Concord and Kannapolis to build a county hospital. The hospital was built through a bond issue and assistance from Duke Endowment of Charlotte. A 55 adult bed and 10 basinet county-owned, non-profit institution was built and opened for patients in 1937. An addition was constructed in 1940, making the present capacity of 120 adult beds, 105 white and 15 colored, and 28 bassinets, 21 white and 7 colored. The hospital is now averaging a daily census of 193 patients.

In 1938 the original nurses' home was built to accommodate 24 employees and nurses. In 1941 an addition brought the total to 83. In 1947 a second addition was built. In this addition was a most modern teaching unit. This building was made possible by Mr. Charles A. Cannon, who has been Chairman of the Cabarrus County Hospital Board since its organization in 1935, and by Federal funds.

A grade A training school was opened in 1942. To date we have graduated six classes of nurses, making a total of 78. In 1947 we became affiliated with Queens College of Charlotte, North Carolina, and now offer an R.N. and two years college credit toward a B.S. in Nursing.

DEDICATION

Graduation

This is not the end; we have only begun;
'Tis just the end of the beginning.
Three new starts for us every one,
Three years of winning,
Years of moulding minds and souls
For the life we're yet to see,
Years in which we sought new goals
And determined what we'd be.

We'll take the memories of these years
And cherish them the more,
As through the unknown years we tread
Towards lessons yet in store.
Success and failure, each in its turn,
Will bring us joy or pain,
But whate'er may befall, we can always recall
We're in the land of beginning again.

Class Prophecy

September, 1951
Bar-X-Ranch, Oklahoma.

Dear Diary,

Tonight, Diary dear, I'm going to tell you about some people you haven't heard about in a long time. I'm glad I brought you with me, because I want to tell you about today and what happened. You probably remember my telling you a long time ago that I'd like to visit a real western ranch. Well, here we are, and believe me, it's wonderful! This invigorating air—how can I ever go back to New York? That reminds me, I have to get my reservations back to New York tomorrow because I'll need a rest before my flight to Miami Wednesday.

Where shall I start, huh? Well, to begin with, it's grand seeing all my classmates and how we all ever got here together I'll never know. I'm sure we never got together so well in training. But poor Lomax, excuse me, Mrs. Revelle, would have died if we hadn't come here. I wouldn't have missed her two boys for anything in the world—those darling little hoodlums. I can't decide which is cuter, her two boys or Padgett's twin girls. Talk about precocious, those girls are, but isn't that what you'd expect of Padgett? Oh yes, she married that mortician. Remember what a time she used to have about her men, but she seems quite happy. Oh, she's living in New York now, too. She and Scarborough are sharing duplex apartments on Fifth Avenue. Scarborough doesn't do much nursing now since Earl, Jr., is only three months old. I must go to see them when I get back to New York. Oh yes, Medlin is still working in Pediatrics. She is Superintendent of the Children's Hospital in California.

Cramford's husband is right on the ball and from the remarks I heard dropped, he has quite a bit on the financial side. Lucky Cran! She says she's getting tired of doing private duty, anyway, she's going to live in Pennsylvania. Cran and I were always the ones who went overboard for morticians when we were in training, which brings up the subject of my own sparkler. But, I wouldn't tell them anything. It'll be more fun to see their surprise tomorrow when they meet him.

Dowd—oh yes—of all our class it would be Katie Pearl who hopped down in an autogyro. But with her job I guess she can do it, Superintendent of Nurses at Bellevue, New York. Good deal—huh?

But the person who really hasn't changed one iota is Mamie Gemayel. Same little gal—just a plain housewife, but she loves it. Still living in Spencer.

By the way, Hillebrande and Nicholson are working at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami, Florida. Hillebrande hasn't given up dancing and acrobatics. She has a floor show of her own at The Rose Room, one of Miami's largest night clubs. Nick is married ot Jackson Memorial's Chief of Staff who is none other than Dr. Earl Speak.

Of course, Diary dear, I guess you think we all deserted dear ole Cabarrus. Oh no, four of our class are still there and have done quite well for themselves. Johnson is a floor Supervisor while Safrit is Operating Room Supervisor. Ross is doing private duty and helping keep the laundry straightened out since her husband is manager of Cabarrus Laundry, Inc. Trullie Whitley has reached the height of her career; she is assistant to Miss Farthing, Director of Nurses. They had quite a bit to tell us about how much the hospital has changed, new additions, etc. Gee, how I'd love to get back to see it!

Since Lampley's and Blackwelder's husbands are members of the House of Representatives, they are doing Public Health Nursing in Washington.

McGinnis is Supervisor of Obstetrics at Memorial Hospital in Charlotte, N. C. She flew in with Lawing and her husband. Lawing isn't nursing now, she's just getting used to being married to Lincolnton, N. C.'s wealthiest contractor. Grass is now doing private duty at John Hopkins in Baltimore. Her husband is an electrician there.

Now the climax, Diary dear. For once I'm glad you are inanimate. This way you don't need a shock absorber before I tell you this. Margie Canup was the bride of the day. Her husband is one of Texas' State Highway Patrolmen. What a life! Canup married? I wouldn't have believed it. Wiles, whose fiance is also a patrolman from Texas, was maid of honor. Day after tomorrow they're going to fly down with me. The girls think it's a joy, my being an air hostess, but to me it's a means of livelihood, and I like it.

Well, Diary dear, I won't keep you any longer, but I had to tell someone about this reopened chapter of my life. But now, I shall put you aside and think of the tomorrows and what they hold for these people who played such a great part in my life. We are successfull girls in spite of all our faults.

MARY HAITHCOCK,
Class Prophet

I, Beulah Johnson, leave my bangs to Ruby Faye Bounds.

I, Margie Lampley, leave my extensive vocabulary to Bertha Garland.

I, Betty Lawing, says to no one will she leave her husband, Howard; but to Ruth Nixon, she leaves her ability to find the right man.

I, Johnnie Medlin, leave my boisterous manner to Lottie Kines.

I, Alice Blackwelder, leave my ability to make "A's" to Margaret Bryant.

I, Betty Nicholson, leave my co-operative ways to my little sister, Ellen Pickett.

I, Johnette Padgett, leave my flirtatious ways to Lucille Bondurant, who is much more bashful than I.

I, Betty Revelle, leave my long black hair to Iris Jean Martin.

I, Billie Ross, leave my ability to say the wrong things at the wrong time to Ann Westmoreland.

I, Betty Safrit, leave my pleasing personality to Adelaide Alexander.

I, June Scarborough, leave my alarm clock to Rachel Stonestreet so she can get to Chapel on time.

I, Trullie Whitley, leave my ability to get a steady boyfriend to Nancy Clay.

I, Lucille Wiles, leave my nonchalant manner to anyone who is foolish enough to worry over it.

I, Imogene McGinnis, leave my red hair to Burnelle Jolley. I hope she appreciates it as much as I do.
